PRESENTATION

Ahkili is a Mental Health Tech Mobile application for one-to-one psychological assistance. It's the first start-up in the country to tackle mental healthcare barriers (consultation high prices, social taboo related to psychological issues), the start-up has developed a mobile application offering an innovative, practical and cheaper alternative support through a booking system for one-to-one psychological assistance. The solution allows to intervene in the early stages of the problem limiting the long-term effects of psychological disorders and reducing the use of expensive medication and psychiatric monitoring.
